Based on total answering. Results recalculated to exclude non-response. In 2007 the race and ethnicity questions read: “Are you, yourself, of Hispanic origin or descent, such as Mexican, Puerto Rican, Cuban, or some other Spanish background?” If respondents answered “yes” they were then asked “Are you white Hispanic, black Hispanic, or some other race?” Respondents who answered “no” or “don’t know” were then asked: “What is your race? Are you white, black, Asian, or some other?”

NOTE: FOR FULL RESULTS SEE TABLE FOLLOWING QK3v.

¹ In mid-June, upon completion of 6,000 interviews, interviewing was halted for a brief period and the data were weighted to allow for a preliminary review of the data. In an experiment, half of respondents up to that point were asked about their spouse’s/partner’s “religion, if any” and the other half of respondents were asked about their spouse’s/partner’s “present religion, if any.” The former question matches the 2007 Landscape Study. Analysis of this experiment found that the former question produced higher estimates of religious intermarriage than the latter question. This is presumably because of the context in which it was asked. When Q.K1 follows the Q.J series of questions (about the religion in which the respondent was raised), some respondents appear to answer by describing their spouse’s/partner’s childhood religion when they are not prompted to report specifically on their spouse’s/partner’s “present” religion. Beginning June 20 (when data collection resumed following this brief hiatus) and for the remainder of the field period, all respondents were asked the latter question. In total, 92% of all respondents received the “present religion, if any” version of the question, which minimizes the bias introduced in estimates of intermarriage resulting from having asked some respondents a different version of the question. Results reported here reflect combined responses to both questions.
ASK IF MARRIED:

Based on total answering. Results recalculated to exclude non-response. In 2007 this question read: “What is the last grade or class that you completed in school?” As in 2014, the 2007 question was open-ended, but, in 2007, interviewers had a different set of pre-coded response options to choose from, making comparisons of more specific categories difficult.

The “Respondent is a citizen” column includes those who were born in the U.S. or Puerto Rico as well as those who answered QP3 affirmatively. The 2007 survey did not include QP2, but rather asked respondents “Were you born in the United States, or in another country?” Those who were born outside the United States were then asked “In what country were you born?” Respondents answering that question by indicating they were born in U.S. territories (such as Guam or another U.S. territory) are included in the “Respondent is a citizen” column.

The 2007 survey did not include QP2, but rather asked respondents if they were born in the U.S. or another country. See full question wording on table QP2. “Born in U.S.” column also includes those who responded “don’t know” when asked what country they were born in. These respondents did not receive the follow up question about year of immigration.

Based on total answering. Results recalculated to exclude non-response. In 2007, the sample size for Muslims is too small to be shown. In 2007 respondents saying their family income was $150,000 or more did not receive the follow up question, INCOME2.

READ TO ALL:
For statistical purposes I have to ask just a couple of final questions…

ASK ALL:
FERT How many children have you ever had? Please count all your biological children who were born alive at any time in your life. [INTERVIEWER NOTE: IF R ASKS WHETHER ADOPTED CHILDREN OR STEPCHILDREN SHOULD BE INCLUDED, SAY: No, we’re asking you only to count all your biological children who were born alive at any time in your life; IF R IS UNCOMFORTABLE WITH THIS QUESTION, SAY: We understand that this is a sensitive question. We ask it in this way for a very specific research purpose – so that we can estimate the total fertility rate of the population. IF R IS UNCOMFORTABLE SPECIFICALLY BECAUSE THE QUESTION DOES NOT INCLUDE ADOPTED CHILDREN, SAY: It’s not that we’re not interested in adoption. It’s just that this question is asked for the very specific purpose of trying to estimate the total fertility rate of the population.]
